

MOORA MOORA CO-OPERATIVE COMMUNITY

Membership

Currently Moora Moora has approximately 50 members, most of whom live here full-time.

The process of becoming a member of Moora Moora involves a number of steps and can take up to two years.

The first point of contact is often through attending a Visitor Day, held on the first Sunday of each month. Interested visitors are invited to participate in our co-op workdays, also held on the first Sunday of every month.

We encourage those interested in membership to visit regularly, to gain a deeper understanding of the various aspects of community living. We have co-op workdays, director and community meetings, and various social events. Such participation is essential in getting to know Moora Moora, our community members and to become known in turn.

Membership

Becoming a Friend of Moora Moora both supports the community and signifies an interest in membership. There are various joining and ongoing fees and costs with membership of Moora Moora. Becoming a friend includes payment of a $200* interest-free refundable loan.

After at least five months of regular involvement as a Friend, the next step is to apply to become a Non-Member Resident, if accommodation is available. Living in a cluster as a Non-Member Resident provides a trial period experiencing life within our off-grid, intentional community on Mount Toolebewong.

Non-Member Residency is usually granted for a 12 month period. Daily involvement in cluster and community activities at Moora Moora, coupled with earning a living, being more self-reliant in a more demanding climate and keeping up outside commitments is not for everybody.

Non-Member Residents are expected to attend workdays, Director and Community Meetings and to be actively involved in all aspects of community life.

After at least 9 months, a Non-Member Resident can nominate for membership. Under some circumstances, an extension of Non-Member Residency may be applied for a maximum of 24 months in total.

Nomination involves a number of processes and occurs over three months. It is designed to ensure a positive and beneficial fit between the nominated Non-Member Resident and Moora Moora.

We continue to welcome new members to our community. If you are drawn to the community, we welcome your enquiry to our Membership Committee.
